"Womack was able to store $1.3 million worth of fixtures in their staging area. Their team was able to detect defects and handle with the manufacturer and/or logistics company before they made it to the job site. While in storage, a large majority of the fixtures were pre-whipped, making installation a much more efficient process. When a specific fixture type was determined to have a lens defect by the manufacturer, the lenses were swapped out and fixtures repacked before coming to the job site; averting a large scale warranty issue on the job site, as well as a headache for the contractor. Fixtures were also delivered on an as needed basis to the job site, which prevented the typical job site storage, damage and misplacement issues."
